Bay Area News and Updates

Over the past year, the CCPS team has reached out to the various user regions for input on proposed upgrades to the system. For the most part, coordinators from different parts of the country support the changes, which are designed to improve efficiency and increase flexibility of the tool.

The proposed design will streamline the clinical placement process and maximizes use of placement provider capacity. Improvements also envisioned include options for management of affiliation agreements and uploading/downloading of orientation materials, student evaluation, and community benefit reporting.

If you would like to share ideas or provide input, please contact Tianda McKoy for the Los Angeles region or Nikki West for the SF Bay Area region. Beta testing in certain CCPS regions across the country is anticipated for Fall/Winter 2016. Dates for rollout to other regions thereafter will be forthcoming.

The Los Angeles Nursing Resource Center Advisory Team & Website Resources

The LANRC Advisory Team is comprised of nursing professionals, leaders and stakeholders who utilize the Centralized Clinical Placement System. Together, members representing academia and service collaboratively plan and provide direction for the use of CCPS and Clinical Placement efforts throughout the Los Angeles Region. The Advisory Team establishes the CCPS Placement Cycle schedule, develops useful resources provided to users on the LANRC site, and shares information across schools and clinical agencies that help to streamline and improve the clinical placement process.

The LANRC Advisory Team is co-chaired by Lynette Dahlman, MSN, RN-BC, NEA-BC, Director, Clinical Education and Academic Partnerships at Huntington Memorial Hospital and Renee Pozza, Renee Pozza, PhD, RN, CNS, FNP-BC, Associate Dean, Academic Affairs at Azusa Pacific University. Lynette Dahlman lynette.dahlman@huntingtonhospital.com

"The partnership between clinical agencies/facilities and academic institutions is critical to the future workforce of nurses in Southern California. The Advisory Team facilitates a forum for interested parties to discuss issues, create strategy and solutions to impact the important function of clinical experiences for nursing students"
(Rene Pozza, 2016).

The LANRC Advisory Team meets twice per year and welcomes participation from schools and clinical agencies using CCPS who would like to guide planning, share valuable information and help to increase visibility and CCPS participation throughout the region. The Los Angeles Nursing Resource Center website is also publically available for nursing professionals, schools and clinical agencies seeking information about CCPS and other helpful resources.
